Exciting Plans for the Future as October Arrives

Dear Members,

Right now, there is an unbelievable amount of insight, creativity and energy being displayed among us folks. What are the limits on the Wesleyan Academy for Lifelong Learning? Apparently, there are no limits! Lots of innovative classes are being proposed and offered. Some courses take us back in time, others help us look to the future. When WALL started seven years ago, who would have thought we would have a class on “Drones”? Well drones are flying or sweeping in during a class this November.

As a WALL member you have access to many opportunities on the Wesleyan Campus. Our program coordinator, Hannah Doan, sends out emails from time to time, highlighting lectures, trips and musical events you may be interested in.

We featured one in this edition of WALL and encourage you to keep an eye on your email for more.

Members of our curriculum committee (pictured above) are meeting now to plan future classes and this group thinks big. Anything is possible and we are anxious to hear your ideas.

Blessings to all,
Richard Davies,
WALL President
